TOP PICTURE shows east or front view of Hempstead County Memorial Hospital, where 204 shrubs have been planted on east and north sides; but the landscaping project is only half finished, there being no shrubs as yet on the south and west sides — as shown by lower photograph of the south wall.

The landscaping work thus far has been paid for by donations from the Federated Garden Clubs of Hope and memorial gifts from friends of the hospital. Further donations are needed. They should be addressed to Hempstead County Memorial Hospital, Hope, Ark.

Today the hospital administrator, Charles W. Wilson, announced that an oral request for a $125,000 expansion project has been made to officials of the State Health Department, looking to participation in the Federal Hill-Burton Act hospital construction fund. Under this act the local institution furnishes one-third of the construction money, and Mr. Wilson said the hospital now sees its way clear to providing its share without calling for additional local tax.

In recent weeks the patient demand has overflowed the hospital's facilities, a total of 60 beds. The proposed construction would add 15 beds. Existing equipment for heat and air conditioning will take care of the proposed 7-bed capacity, Mr. Wilson said, and the kitchen and operating facilities would accommodate still more.

U of A Band to Play Here Tuesday Night

The University of Arkansas Concert Band under the direction of Richard A. Worthington will present a concert at Hope High School Auditorium in Hope at 8:40 p. m. on March 4th. This concert is part of the University Band's bi-annual tour which takes them to Mena, DeQueen, Texarkana, Hope, Malvern, Benton, Little Rock, North Little Rock, Jacksonville, and Morrilton.

The program for this concert will be interesting and of a variety of different styles. The King Stephen Overture by Ludwig van Beethoven is a recent transcription for band by Lucien Cailliet which shows the adaptability of the band for this type of music. An original composition for band will also be featured in order to show what the present day composer is doing to increase the band's literature. The original composition is the Toccata for Band by Frank Erickson who is at present employed by the Bourne Music Publishing Company. On the lighter side, the University of Arkansas Concert Band will perform such numbers as Selections from Lili Abner, Holiday for Trombones, Lassus Trombone, and several marches.

Negro Woman Shot to Death, Husband Held

Local law enforcement officers today charged a 72-year-old Negro, Robert Thomas, with the fatal shooting last night of his wife, Anna May Thomas, 42, at their home on West 4th St.

The incident occurred about 11 p. m. Officers said the woman was shot with a 22 calibre rifle while in bed. Her 5-month-old baby was beside her but was not harmed.

Thomas was arrested and turned over to the Sheriff's office where formal charges were filed. Investigating were Corner Rufus Herndon Jr., Police Chief Jack Brown and State Police Officer Smith. Earlier last night, about 8 o'clock, officers were called to an auto on Short Street where they found Clinton Pres, 50-year-old Negro, dead in his car. Police are investigating the death from natural causes. City Police assisted in the investigation.

Saturday night an altercation occurred at the Blue Room, a Negro night spot on S. Hazel Street. John H. Harris, Negro, was hit on the head with a bottle and required treatment at a doctor's office. Chief of Police Jack Brown said Harris was hit by another Negro, Roland Ross, who was stabbed in the chest by Harris. Neither were considered seriously hurt. Both were charged with disturbing the peace.

Compensation For a Sitting Injury Allowed

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court, in a 4-3 split decision said today a person is entitled to workmen's compensation for injuries suffered from continual sitting.

The court, in an opinion written by Associate Justice Paul Ward, upheld the Randolph Shoe Co. in saying the Brown Shoe Co. should pay compensation to Mrs. Clara Fooks, an employee at Brown's in Peabodias plant from 1940 to 1951 and briefly in 1956.

The Brown Shoe Co. argued before the State Workmen's Compensation Commission and to the Randolph Circuit Court that the bursts of the lower spine which the woman suffered was not an occupational disease.

"The disease need not be peculiar to the occupation but may be peculiar to the process for employment," the court said, and later remarked, "there can be no doubt here that there was a hazard or risk involved in the character of work the appellee was doing because it actually did cause her ailment."

Concurring Opinion
Associate Ed McFadden, in a concurring opinion, said no occupational disease was established but he voted to award Mrs. Fooks damages since he believed she suffered an accidental injury as result of her work.

Justice J. S. Holt, in his dissenting opinion, said he believed the majority opinion was a step toward making the state compensation law equal general accident insurance.

"It is significant that among the literally thousands of stenographers, telephone operators, executives, lawyers, judges and other employees throughout this nation who do their work sitting in chairs, appellee has been unable to cite one single case in this nation similar to the one here," Holt remarked.

Warranty Can Replace Sales Act

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today said a written warranty can replace the Arkansas uniform sales act.

The decision concerned an appeal from the Lincoln Chancery Court on sale of a hay trailer by Moss Truck & Tractor Company to Dr. B. M. Gardner in 1955 for $350. The doctor claimed the trailer was defective and he had a right to refuse to pay because of state warranty law. The Moss Company countered that the written contract excluded any implied warranties and they had repaired the trailer.

"The language is too clear to admit of doubt," Ralph Robinson, special associate justice of Van Buren, said in the majority opinion. "It excludes all implied warranties under the statutes and leaves Dr. Gardner only the right to claim under the express warranties stated on the reverse side of the contract."

"If manufacturers and sales agencies resort to fine print on the back of the contract, it may be that a person buying an expensive piece of machinery will have to take his lawyer around with him to tell him the legal implications resulting from the signing of such a contract," the opinion commented.

In another case, the court upheld the Crawford Chancery Court in not allowing a father to take his six-year-old daughter from the grandparents.

"While we do not think it within the province of this court, or any other court, to instruct parents how to rear their children, what they should eat, in what manner or how often they should be punished, we are of the opinion that a court has the right as well as the duty to safeguard the health and welfare of a child," the opinion by Chief Justice Harris said.

The court said the appeal by David Lee Wilson, of Tulsa, Okla., that he had a witness who would disprove the testimony of his parents, David L. Wilson and Bessie Wilson, was not important, because the Crawford Chancery Court is to have another hearing on custody of the girl Lee Irene, anyway.

Orders Housing Group to Refund

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today upheld the Saline Chancery court in directing the Benton Housing Co-Oper to pay $1,210 to Benton Plumbing, Inc.

The case concerned payment for plumbing and gas piping and was piping which Benton Plumbing installed for the co-op's housing addition in Benton.

The Co-op contended it owed no money since it had entered no contract with the plumbing firm and was not properly served in the case.

Millwood Bill To Hit House on Wednesday

The omnibus rivers and harbors and flood control bill which incorporates the Millwood Dam and upstream projects on Little river will hit the House of Representatives Wednesday. L. R. Matthews telephoned here from Washington, D. C. this morning.

The executive vice-president of the Red River Valley association is in the capital from his Shreveport office to assist in the backstage fight for river projects. Latest word is that all flood-control projects will probably specify storage capacity for local-use waters.

Mr. Matthews indicated this morning an effort will be made to pass the omnibus bill over a presidential veto if it is made. Two years ago Mr. Eisenhower vetoed the omnibus bill because at that time some of the contained projects had not been cleared with the Corps of Engineers, and for what the president termed "budgetary reasons."

The veto two years ago killed the bill, but this morning Mr. Matthews indicated congressional sentiment leans toward action with or without the president's support.

Safeway to Break Ground 11 a. m. Tuesday

Safeway will break ground for its new super-market on W. Third St. at 11 a. m. Tuesday, Hope Chamber of Commerce announced over the week-end.

The Oakland, Calif., based grocery system, second largest in the nation, bought an entire block just west of the business section last year and during the winter cleared the area of residence. The block is bounded by W. Third St. Hervey St. Grady St. and Bryant Ave.

Although Safeway executed a tentative lease for a local store early in the 1940's, later blocked by wartime restrictions on construction, this is the company's first actual entrance into the Hope area. Its stores are widely distributed in Arkansas, however, the nearest being at Arkadelphia, Camden, and Texarkana, Ark.-Tex.

Businessman Played Big Part in War

Leonard Ellis, president of the First Baptist Church Brotherhood organization, said today that combat veterans of World War II, from Bougainville to North Africa, from Normandy to the Burma Road, will recall great earth-moving mammoths — mechanized, accented, victory were a mighty machine which played such a prominent part in victory against totalitarian tyranny.

And on these giant machines, they will recall a familiar name spelled out . . . LeTourneau. The designer and manufacturer, R. G. LeTourneau, will fly into Hope the evening of March 10, have supper with the brotherhood organization of the church, and then will address a public mass meeting in the auditorium of the church at 7:30 p. m. A capacity crowd is expected.

Some of the recorded events and the contribution LeTourneau equipment played in the allied victory were recalled today by Mr. Ellis, who said:

When the first allied fighter plane landed in Normandy after D-Day, military photographers were there to record the event. The air-strip was scarcely finished when the landing was made, and the developed film showed the plane almost hidden behind a giant frame bearing the word . . . LeTourneau.

White House May Have Given Mack Ultimatum

By NAIL MacNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Owen Harris of a special House investigating subcommittee announced today he will file a resolution to impeach Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

Harris also expressed belief that a group of senators—accused of "improper" influence on the FCC—will have to appear before his subcommittee to explain their actions.

Mack is accused of letting money and influence sway his official decisions. He has denied the charges, but has agreed to consider Harris' demand that he give up his $20,000-a-year post.

There have been unconfirmed reports that the White House has given Mack an ultimatum to quit or be fired.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress resumed investigation of the Federal Communications Commission today and unconfirmed reports said FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack has been given a White House ultimatum to quit or be fired.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerly refused to comment on the reports Sunday night. "I haven't had any comment on that over the weekend. I haven't any comment and I'm not going to have any," he told the United Press.

Mack's attorney, William A. Porter, said he knew nothing about the reported White House ouster move.

He said Mack had not submitted his resignation to the White House up to a late hour Sunday night. He denied reports he has helped Mack draft a letter of resignation, and insisted he does not know Mack's intentions.

The New York Times said Mack's immediate resignation had been demanded by Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and Gerald D. Morgan, the President's special counsel. The newspaper said the White House was "on the verge of announcing the forced resignation."

Plans to Bury 15 Children In School Bus

By JAMES RENNEISEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (UP)—Bereaved families made burial plans today for 15 victims of the nation's worst school bus accident while workers dragged the Big Sandy River for the bodies of 12 other children.

The battered, mud-encrusted bus was pulled from the rain-swollen river Sunday by two heavy construction tractors. It was located 100 yards downstream from the point where it had plunged down a 50-foot cliff into the river last Friday.

The bodies of 14 children and the driver, John Dorossett, 27, were recovered. Officials feared the remaining victims may have been washed miles downstream by the swift-rushing waters.

Fourteen youngsters scrambled to safety minutes before the bus settled on the bottom.

Classes Suspended
"Roy Turner, superintendent of Floyd County schools, suspended all classes in the county indefinitely because of the tragedy in this eastern Kentucky mountain community. He said no mass burial was planned."

The bodies were taken to a temporary morgue set up at a U.S. Army Reserve training station near here. Parents then began the fearful task of identifying the dead children.

When the bus was pulled to the surface, the bloated body of a girl hung limply from the rear door—a grim reminder of the agony that preceded death for the trapped youngsters.

"The bodies of 12 other children were found in the two feet of mud that covered the bus floor. Dorossett's body was found slumped in his seat."

Water-logged books, lunch pails and school bags and a small rubber ball were found in the sludge. The articles were all collected and put on display at the morgue for parents to claim.

Windows Broken
Broken windows in the bus were mute testimony to the struggle put up by the passengers to escape their watery trap.

"They all seem to be in such awful positions, as if they were fighting for their lives," a worker said.

The current, which at times reached eight miles per hour, had pushed the bus on its right side against the bank opposite from its entry point. A worker probing with a 30-foot steel pole from a raft located the vehicle.

The pole broke a window, and the body of James Ousley came to the surface. The body was carried ashore as more than 3,000 fearful parents and onlookers stood by in silence.

President in Talks With Soviet Envoy

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Molotov today on conflicting U.S. and Russian terms for holding a cold war "summit" conference.

Menshikov said after the 40-minute White House meeting that he had "a friendly and useful" conversation with the President. But he refused to go into detail.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles also attended the meeting. Soviet sources said in advance of the meeting that Menshikov planned to emphasize Moscow's willingness to be "flexible" in arranging for the heads-of-government meeting.

It was presumed that the new English-speaking envoy also was to be asked to clarify Russia's latest proposal for a 25 to 30 nation meeting of foreign ministers this spring to adopt the agenda and decide the time, place and participants of a summit conference.

The proposal, contained in a note delivered in several capitals Friday has not been made public. At first it was seen as a compromise move by Moscow, but Western diplomats said closer study showed the Kremlin wanted to give the foreign ministers only a "rubber stamp" role and to exclude such key cold war issues as German unification from the agenda.

Soviet sources said Menshikov explained Russia's new position as a "foreign ministers" meeting to pave the way for a summit conference. They said Menshikov emphasized Russian willingness to do whatever is necessary to achieve a summit conference.

Drainage Ruling Is Upheld
LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today upheld the Phillips Chancery Court in saying the Lee-Phillips Drainage District will have to pay for future improvements to the Hick Creek canal the same as for the initial work on the project.

It was the third time the District's appeal to the Supreme Court to decide who would pay what in an earlier opinion the court said the Beaver Bayou Drainage District should pay for providing drainage through the canal and Lee-Phillips should pay

RIVER THWARTS SEARCH FOR SCHOOL BUS VICTIMS—Spectators line the banks of the Big Sandy river near Prestonsburg, Ky., as dragging operations are made in efforts to locate a school bus which plunged into the flood-swollen stream. Thirteen children managed to escape from the vehicle before it sank, but officials fear that the driver and 28 others perished. In what the National Safety Council describes as perhaps the worst school bus accident in the nation's history. The bus plunged over a 50-foot cliff after colliding with two other vehicles.

SHY BRIDE—Ailing Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-N.D.), right, leaves a lawyer's office in Arlington, Va., after the 78-year-old congressman married Mrs. Jean Rodgers, left, who tried to duck photographers as she left the office some time after Burdick's departure. It is the third marriage for Burdick and the second for his "thirtyish" wife, who is also his secretary.

May Divert Purchases to Home Front

By UNITED PRESS

A State Department official raised the possibility today that some foreign aid purchases being made overseas may be diverted to the home front to ease the business recession.

Deputy Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the administration was "earnestly studying" the matter. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said Saturday that he had asked President Eisenhower to consider whether such a plan was feasible.

Dillon said "it may be practicable, and certainly desirable." He was questioned by the committee in its overall examination of U.S. foreign policy.

Elsewhere in Congress, Disability: The White House hinted that President Eisenhower may make public soon his "clear understanding" with Vice President Richard M. Nixon on how Nixon will take over in case the chief executive is incapacitated.

Farm Prices: The Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Farmers Union differed over what Congress should do about crop price supports. Spokesmen for both testified before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee holding hearings on farm bills. The chamber said it feared that this would cause a recession. The Farmers Union price supports should be cut and that the soil bank plan should be more damage to the "already depressed economy."

FEC: Chairman Owen Harris of the House subcommittee investigating alleged wrongdoing in federal regulatory agencies said he will file a resolution soon to impeach Federal Communications Commissioner Russell A. Mack. Mack has denied letting money and friends influence his decisions.

Plane Crashes Leaves 5 Dead
LOS ANGELES (UP)—Plane crashes, including a collision in flight, killed five persons in a weekend of aerial tragedy in southern California skies.

Four died Saturday in the clear sky over nearby Upland when an Aerona champion and a Cessna 170 smashed together about 800 feet up, scattering wreckage over a quarter-mile and sending one plane plunging into the earth near a home.

The fifth person died Sunday when two light planes crashed in San Fernando Valley within 10 minutes of each other. Three persons were injured.

Expert Sees Man Going Into Orbit in Three Years and to The Moon Within Ten Years

Editor's Note—It has been nearly three decades since Dr. Walter Dornberger took his first steps into the rocket age. Later his success threatened to change the course of the war. Now a rare veteran of a new age, he looks at what the future holds.

By TIM SMITH
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 2 (UP)—With present rockets, 20 pounds of equipment how can be sent to Mars, 200 pounds to the moon.

Man will stand on the moon in 10 years.

Within three years, we will be able to put a man into orbit and bring him back to earth.

Author of these predictions is no stargazer. He is Dr. Walter Dornberger, who, as top man of Germany's wartime V2 rocket program, first showed the way into space. Now 62, he is technical assistant to the president of Bell Aircraft.

Dornberger, an engineer, looks upon the perils of space (this way): "Scientists analyze too much. They told Columbus he would be eaten by terrible monsters or fall off the edge of the sea."

"When we were ready to fire the first V2 some scientists in Berlin tried to have it called off. He said the upper air was full of loose oxygen and hydrogen, and we would cause a terrible explosion by shooting our rocket into this. I'm still waiting for the bang."

"Now, I think they worry too much about cosmic rays and meteorites. All the scientists have to go on is theory. I say let's go up and find out how things really are."

The Associated Press asked Dornberger a series of questions about the age of space. Here are his answers:

Q. With full effort by both Russia and the United States how soon can there be manned space flight?

A. We can have manned space flight in 10 to 15 years. I assume, of course, all the necessary money, material and technicians being provided. And by space flight I mean out of orbit flight. Conquest of space means that man can utilize space; he can free to come and go in it as he wishes; to reign in it at his will. Merely tossing metal into the sky or shooting things to the moon, that is not conquest of space.

Q. When do you think man can land on the moon?

A. Ma will stand on the moon in 10 years. 10 to 15 years there will be a manned station on the moon. Whether it is Russia or American will depend on how much money Congress is willing to spend. It all depends on the effort.

Q. Do you think the United States should make an all-out effort to do this?

A. That is for the military and Congress to decide. They have to determine how much we can afford to spend on the conquest of space, at the same time keeping our national defense and economy healthy.

Q. What are the next likely developments over the next 10 to 15 years? And would they come faster if we were able to cooperate with the Russians?

A. It is useless to talk of cooperation with the Russians in a thing like this. They never share anything military.

The next steps the next step will be to send up bigger satellites, ones that will stay up a longer time. These will carry many instruments, including television for reconnaissance. They will store up information to be sent back when they come over the U.S. These will weigh a ton or two. We'll have them in two to three years.

Next might come a shot to the moon or this might come first or at the same time. These developments I mention will not necessarily follow one at a time but will offer overlap. With present rockets 200 pounds can now be sent to the moon with radioonde equipment for sending back in formation. With the same rockets we can now send 20 pounds to Mars.

Then there will come a shot around the moon again collecting pictures and information to be sent back to earth when this satellite comes nearest to us. This will come in the next two years, maybe three. And we will be able then to send 20 pounds of equipment around Mars. We might try to get these back but it will be 100 per cent luck if we succeed.

After that, maybe overlapping, we will get up still heavier satellites into permanent orbits, 30,000 to 40,000 pounds.

The first manned space vehicle will be a shuttle rocket to this last satellite which will cost hundreds of millions. By then, perhaps in five or six years, we will know how to send a man into space and bring him back where we want him.

Then when we have a lot of these satellites and shuttle rockets we will be able to group them together for our factory in space to make a ship for going to the moon or other planets. I think these satellites will be 1,000-2,000 miles up, unless "space" is denser than we now believe it to be, in which case they would have to be higher.

We must first learn to fly at satellite speeds and to return to earth safely, just where we want to land. It will take maybe three years from now to learn how to return man where we want him.

McMath Has No Desire to Be Governor

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Former Gov. Sid McMath said Saturday he had "no desire" to seek reelection to the office in 1958.

McMath, governor of Arkansas from 1942 to 1952, was badly defeated by Gov. Francis Cherry. McMath said, despite persistent rumors he might run, that he was still paying for my last campaign.

McMath criticized Gov. Faubus during the Little Rock integration crisis. He accused Faubus of calling the National Guard to further his political power and win himself a third term.

Faubus is expected to reveal if he'll run for a third time some time this week.

STUDENTS CAUTIONED

KARACHI, Pakistan. (UP)—Former Prime Minister Choudhry Mohammed Ali advised the National Assembly Sunday night against sending students to American colleges because, he said, they return home with "inflated notions."

He said young Pakistanis returning from the United States believing life is meaningless without refrigerators and big cars. He suggested Pakistan send its students to Japan instead.

CONTROL MAN—The Soviet press revealed that the Kremlin has quietly replaced the political chief of the armed forces—the man who secured the Communist party's control over the Red Army. The new head of the political administration of the armed forces is Col. Gen. F. I. Golikov, above, replaces Col. Gen. A. Zheltov, who played a decisive part in the struggle which led to the ousting of Marshal Georgi Zhukov from his top party posts.

Man Who Married Princess, Dies

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP)—Clyde K. Harris, 39, the former Oklahoma soda jerk who married a Prussian princess, died Sunday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Harris, who grew up to be an interior decorator, met Princess Cecilia, granddaughter of Germany's last Kaiser, Wilhelm, while he was a soldier assigned to track down some of the art treasures which had vanished during World War II.

They corresponded for nearly three years after his return to this country. In 1949, he returned and married his royal sweetheart in a Hohenzollern family castle in Bavaria. He was the first commoner to wed a member of the royal family in Hecchingen Castle.

"My Business is Groceries..."

"It is my business to give the people of this community the very best in food values, prompt service, courteous treatment. The kind of merchandise that goes on my shelves has a lot to do with my success, so I buy good products that are made and packaged in accordance with the well known standards of quality, weight and measure. Buying and selling on the basis of these standards protects my customers and my business."

"I know from experience that good newspaper advertising is the best way to tell people the news of my store. In my opinion, newspaper advertising is not only the most effective way for me to advertise, it is also the safest way. When I spend money in newspaper advertising I make my investment on the basis of verified circulation figures and values that are as well known and important in advertising as the standards of weight and quality that I use in my own business."

The information the grocer refers to is found in reports issued by the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. The work of the Bureau is to furnish advertisers with audited information about the circulation of its publisher members.

At regular intervals the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is a member, sends an experienced circulation auditor to make a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The FACTS established by this audit are published in an A.B.C. report which tells you: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how obtained; how much people pay for our paper; and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

Advertisers are invited to ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report

New York Has Opened Its Special School

NEW YORK (UP)—New York City opens two special fourth through-ninth-grade schools today for some of the 945 children expelled as troublemakers from the city's violence-plagued regular public schools.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Sunday he had concurred in the Board of Education's emergency action to handle the difficult students.

But the mayor said only 1 percent of the school population is troublesome and "once in a while I wish somebody would say something nice about the other kids who are darned fine and doing a good job."

Only a handful of students were scheduled to be enrolled today in a Greenwich Village school and another in Brooklyn. School officials hope to open two more such schools, in the Bronx and Queens, within the next month.

The city already operates five permanent schools for problem boys and has plans for six more, including one for girls. These existing schools, however, were not adequate to handle the youngsters expelled in citywide school actions last month.

The new temporary schools will be operated with personal guidance and small classes—about 14 students in each—the keynotes to rehabilitation of the difficult children. Each pupil will be required to come to school today with a parent or other relative who will confer with school officials.

Arch Bishop Under Guard After Threat

BOSTON (UP)—Roman Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing was under guard of armed plainclothesmen today after a profane telephone caller twice threatened him with death and also threatened to blow up Holy Cross Cathedral.

Nearly 100 police and detectives were assigned to the archbishop, but the 63-year-old prelate brushed the incident aside.

"Much ado about nothing," he said.

DOROTHY DIX

Cigarettes Couldn't Give Her A Kiss In A Carload

Dear Dorothy Dix: My fiancé refuses to marry me unless I give up smoking. I think he's demanding too much. I know I love him very dearly but question his love when a little thing like this may come between us.

MATTY
Dear Matty: Doubtless he loves you, but is smart enough to realize that unless you give up a habit that is repulsive to him it will be a perpetual source of discord. You question his love because he wants you to give something up. How about your end of it? Don't you think he might question a love that refuses to give up some little pleasure? Is a good marriage worth a habit? There's more affection in a good man than you'll ever get from a smoke.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Can a woman love a man who is in his late 50's, goes around with other women and says he's in his early 40's? My friend is married to a man like that but she says they aren't getting any younger so she might as well stick it out. They've been married five years — the second time for each.

G. G.
Dear G. G.: No one can say what kind of man a woman can love. The heel hasn't been born yet that can't persuade some dame to be his heart throb. Your friend takes a very realistic view of the situation. This isn't her first romance, she probably married the man for companionship as well as security. Since she still has both, why change? I'm sorry to disappoint you if you expected me to advise her to quit in a huff.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a widow of 37 with seven children. All married and settled. I've been going with a man for five years. He says he loves me yet won't be pinned down to marriage. I'm lonely and don't want to wait any longer.

MINNA F.
Dear Minna: There are times in life when we must accept the fact that some things simply cannot be changed. A man of 60 who is satisfied with bachelorhood cannot be pushed, shoved, egged or otherwise coerced into marriage. He'll keep stalling as long as you let him. Break off or content yourself with the companionship he offers, and be very grateful for your material assets.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What can be done with a husband who constantly picks and argues? According to my man, everything I say or do is wrong. He'll contradict a statement of mine, and even when I prove I'm right he still argues. I don't mind this at home, but it makes me look ridiculous when he pulls the same stunt in company. Please suggest a cure.

IRIS
Dear Iris: Instead of making a big deal and proving him wrong try the "Yes, dear" approach. "You're so right" will flatter him into silence for at least three minutes. The people you know are aware of his boorishness; they'll be amused at your new attitude, you'll both preserve dignity and nothing will be lost. Try it!

Razorbacks Still Have Title Chance
FAYETTEVILLE (UP)—The Porkers of the University of Arkansas ran over undermanned Baylor 79-55 Saturday night but it took help from the Texas Aggies for the Razorbacks to stay in a tie for the Southwest Conference lead.

The Aggies handed Southern Methodist their first bad loss whipping at Dallas in three years, 43-42.

It threw the conference lead into a tie between the Porkers and SMU. Both have 8-5 records.

The Razorbacks play Texas here Tuesday night.

The Arkansas capitalized on out-bounding the Bears and on the 24 points contributed by reliable Freddy Crim, the games high scorer. Larry Barnes hit 16 for Baylor.

Arkansas led at halftime 32-20.

Caddo Gap Loses Out In Finals

RUSSELLVILLE (UP)—The second time they were champion for the Marmaduke Greyhounds as they took the state Class "B" basketball title from the grass of Caddo Gap's Wildcats 69-54 Saturday night.

On the other hand, for Caddo Gap, you might say the 38th time was highly uncharmed. The Wildcats had won 37 straight games only to fall on their 38th try.

As for Marmaduke, it was sweet victory to soothe the bitterness of the defeat by one point last year that cost them the same crown.

It was professional-looking outside shooting that boosted the Greyhounds to the top. Much of the credit should go to Marmaduke's John Shatley, who made leaping 30-foot jump shots look easy and had 20 points for the night.

The Greyhounds' zone defense kept big Jimmy Davis of Caddo Gap from getting inside and stuffing the basket—the thing that spoiled defeat for many of the Wildcats' other victims.

Even so, Davis still led the losers with 16 points.

Bobcats Play Fayetteville on Wednesday

AAA-AA basketball tournament starts Tuesday offering the most prestige of all high school tournaments in Arkansas, but the question is, will that honor go to the Big Eight or some AA representative.

The Big Eight has a lot of recommendations. Its teams have taken 18 state titles in 34 years of competition.

The consensus is, however, that the Big Eight is somewhat weaker than usual and, of course, those upsets do occur.

At any rate, it will all come out under the baskets—the baskets of Barton Coliseum starting at 2 p.m. Tuesday when Texarkana's Big Eight champs meet Leah Valley, winners of third spot in the Region II AA tourney.

Then at 2:30, Van Buren, winners of their own Region I AA tourney. Incidentally, it's quite a landmark for Benton. It's the first time for them in a state tournament.

Then Tuesday night, at 7:30 Little Rock Central, fourth-place in the Big Eight meets Rogers, the third place holders of the Region I AA tourney. At 8:30 p.m. Jonesboro, a perennial favorite on the hardwood, and the champs of Region II AA, goes against Arkadelphia, runner-up in Region IV AA.

Conway, Region III AA titlist, will start things Wednesday afternoon against Forrest City, runner-up in Region II AA. That will be at 2.

At 8:20 p.m. Big Eight third place finisher Pine Bluff will take on Fairview, third place finisher in Region IV AA.

Wednesday night at 7:30, Fayetteville, runner-up in Region I AA, will play Hope, champs of their own Region IV AA tourney.

Fort Smith, second place holders in the Big Eight, will complete first round play by meeting Russellville, which finished third in region III AA play.

The "bonus" game is scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday.

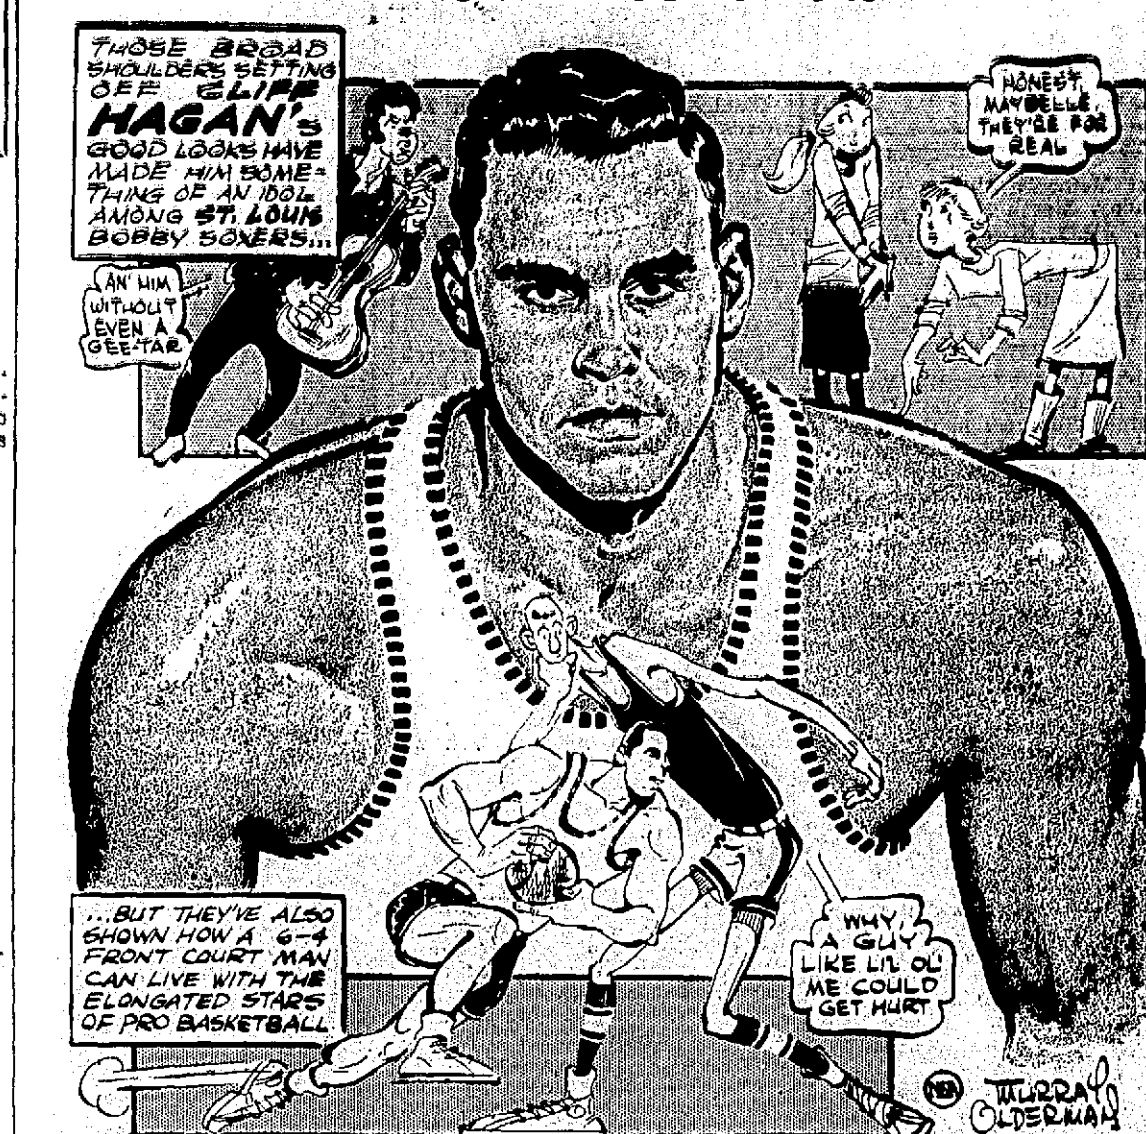

Arkansas Girl Is a Finalist

MOBILE, Ala. (UP)—Arkansas entry in the nation's first Junior Miss America contest, Jane Ann Branton, was one of the finalists in the show which ended here Sunday.

... AS HANDSOME DOES

Sheridan Is B Champ as Expected

MARIANNA (UP)—Classy Jerry Carlton's 35 points were too much for Stephens as the Sheridan Yellowjackets became the state's Class "A" titlist 83 to 63 Saturday night.

Carlton, as a result of the season-ending performance, turned in a 131-point effort for the four tourney games here, a record.

The Oilers of Stephens looked dangerous until the half, but came back cold after the intermission and Sheridan pulled away.

It was hard to take for the Oilers. Last year they also were beaten in the final game of the tourney. In 1957, it was Rogers that laid it on the Oilers.

Tech's Wonder Boys Favored In Playoff

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—It looks like Arkansas Tech's wonderful Wonderboys, but it will take two more nights of battling to decide Arkansas representative of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tourney at Kansas which starts next Monday.

The schedule for tonight's semi-finals of the state playoffs has Tech meeting Arkansas A&M and Southern State playing Arkansas State Teachers.

Tech's Wonderboys flexed their muscles passed the 100-point mark the third time this season Saturday night in besting Arkansas College 108-84. Tech hit a hot 48.5 percentage of their field goals and out-bounded to Highlander 70-50.

Tech's Bob Crawford led with 25 and Freshman stand-out J. P. Lovelady added 19. For Arkansas College, Corbett Passmore led with a sizzling 35 points.

The last year's of Southern State, rose up in the last few minutes to overhaul Harding College 60-48. It was the outside shooting of Fred Massey, who had 15 points, that made it tough for the Magnolia team. James Boley hit when it counted and managed 13 important markets for the winners.

Arkansas State Teachers showed hustle for defeat the College of the Ozarks 84-47 after being out done in the first half. Even while losing, the Mountaineers managed to keep the scoring lead pretty much on the Teachers' ace, G. G. Monroe Ingram. He got only six points for the evening.

Ouchita Baptist's Teers kept it neck and neck until their ace, Marvin Venable, fouled out with six and a half minutes left. Venable led with 19 points.

Guardsman Killed In Auto Wreck

FINE BLUFF (UP)—A pre-dawn smashup on U.S. Highway 64 Sunday took the life of an 18-year-old Federalized National Guardsman and sent two others to hospitals.

State Trooper Clyde Newby identified the dead youth as Melvin G. Willis of Heber Springs, who was stationed at Camp Robinson.

Newby said the driver of the Buick Wildcat, 19, of Pine Bluff, was taken to Pine Bluff Regional Hospital. The other passenger in the car, James Weischnau of Little Rock, 21, was taken to Davis Hospital here.

Newby said the car hit the highway and came to rest in a ditch.

Weather Is Blamed for Cost of Meat

By FRANK SPENCER
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)—You're paying more for round steak and pork chops and it appears you can blame the weather.

There are fewer pigs and cows coming to market because of drought in the Southwest and too much rain in the corn belt, livestock authorities said today.

And—as far as the housewife is concerned—the situation will get worse before it gets better.

Both beef and pork cost more at the meat counter than a year ago, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics. But the butcher is paying more too.

Livestock Comparisons
Here's the difference in retail price per pound for December, 1957, latest available, and the same month a year earlier:

Dec. '56 Dec. '57
Round steak 89.9 96.9
Pork chops 77.7 85.2

This is the national average, according to the Labor Department which also reported these wholesale meat price comparisons:

1947-49 100
Jan. '57 82
Dec. '57 95
Jan. '58 102

Thus, an order of meat that cost your butcher $92 in January, 1957, cost him $25 more last month.

Now take a look at another table from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, on livestock shipments into Chicago:

Jan. '57 Jan. '58
Cattle 223,650 190,915
Hogs 215,737 205,889

Rain Creates Shortages
What caused the decrease? The livestock authorities explained it this way: Heavy rains last year destroyed good grazing conditions to the Southwest. This enabled the ranchers to restock their herds.

The ranchers are keeping cattle on the range to get them fatter and also to breed more cattle.

Rain affected the pigs, too. In the corn belt heavy rains last fall created storage problems. The corn was moist and there was a lot of it. Since it couldn't be stored, it had to be fed to the livestock.

This brought on a favorable condition for pig raising. For years farmers considered they could make money if the price of 12 bushels of corn equaled the price of 100 pounds of live hog.

The present ratio, according to the Department of Agriculture, is 18.2 to 1, and a private source said it was closer to 22 to 1.

With feed so cheap, farmers are taking renewed interest in the pig business and one authority said there was a danger of excessive fattening, which might lead to a depressed market by next fall.

"Thus," he said, "the same situation which is currently contributing to higher livestock and meat prices will within a relatively few months cause lower prices and, particularly in the case of hogs, may bring drastic price declines."

Matter of FACT

PREPARED REPORT—Picture above is H. H. Hagan, chairman of the board of the Ford Foundation, which prepared the report at the request of the White House.

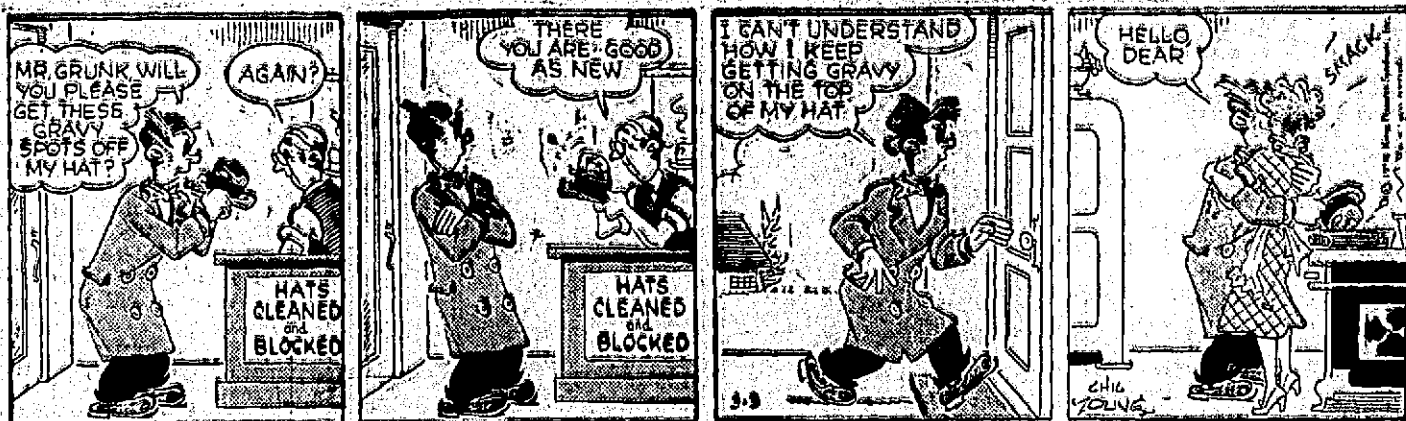

The first Greek letter fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, was founded in 1776 at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., as a social club. There was a ritual with secret vows, a motto, a key and a badge. Between 1800 and 1884 Phi Beta Kappa changed its character to that of an honor society and admitted as members scholars of high standing. In 1875 it began admitting women.

Newby said the car hit the highway and came to rest in a ditch.

Benson Says Program Will Help GOP

WASHINGTON (UP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson has claimed his farm program has become "increasingly popular" and will help—not hurt—Republican chances in the November elections.

Benson said "the majority of farmers without question" support the administration's flexible price support program and other recommendations aimed at taking the government more and more out of agriculture.

Firmly backed by President Eisenhower, the agriculture secretary has refused to step out of office, contending that his program was more important than the political fate of individual Republicans in farm states.

Rep. A.L. Miller (R-Neb.), chief spokesman for a GOP congressional anti-Benson drive, has contended the Republican Party may lose 20 to 30 House seats in November unless Benson resigns.

Benson was asked about Miller's forecast Sunday on the NBC-TV program "Youth Wants to Know." He replied that he was "sure" the farmers would support the Republicans who backed his program.

"If as Republicans we lined up behind this program, I'm sure that the farmers would remember that at the polls," he said.

Benson made his new defense of his policies on film. The secretary, a Mormon church leader, does not make public appearances on Sunday.

Britain's Fuch Completes Antarctic Trek

By CHARLES R. MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

MCMURDO SOUND (UP)—British explorer Vivian Fuchs, first man ever to lead an expedition clear across Antarctica, began preparing today to return to Britain where public acclaim and a knighthood await him.

The Fuchs party is expected to leave by ship later this week for New Zealand, where the explorer will board an England-bound plane. An ice breakup has made air travel from here difficult and dangerous.

Fuchs's 2,100 mile Antarctic trek ended Sunday at New Zealand's base on the Antarctic coast, a few miles from the U.S. camp herde.

U.S. and British photographers swarmed out of the base to meet him, and the washboards and garbage-cans of an American "marching and welcoming band" played him in.

Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and the Royal Geographical Society radioed congratulations to Fuchs. The RGS also congratulated Sir Edmund Hillary, New Zealand's conqueror of Mt. Everest, who guided the Fuchs party over the last stages of the journey.

Fuchs was notified that the Queen will knight him when he returns to London.

Hillary, who urged Fuchs to give up the trip when worsening weather multiplied the dangers of Antarctic travel, was glad to acknowledge his mistake.

"There were times when I thought you wouldn't get here," he told Fuchs. "I'm very happy to have been proved wrong."

Greek Cabinet Tenders Resignation

ATHENS, Greece, March 2 (AP)—Premier Constantine Karamanlis and his cabinet resigned today. He recommended national elections to bring in a new government.

Two cabinet ministers had resigned from Karamanlis' cabinet and carried 15 Parliament members of his majority National Radical Union with them. The ministers broke with Karamanlis over his proposals for changing the electoral system.

The party is now a minority, and I consequently tendered my resignation," Karamanlis told the cabinet after conferring for two hours with King Paul.

Vandals Nearly Spoil Queen's Visit

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 2 (AP)—Vandals almost spoiled the visit of British Queen Mother Elizabeth in the historical gold rush city of Ballarat today.

Six beds of begonias, Ballarat's pride and joy and the object of the Queen's visit, were uprooted by the vandals last night when guards took a short break.

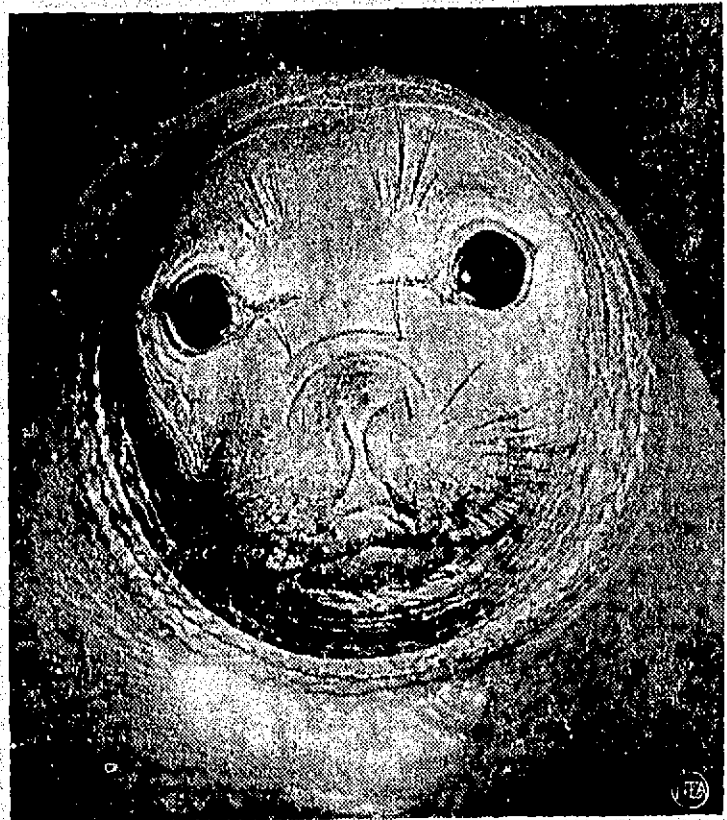

The mayor, councillors and garden staff were called from their beds, hurried to the gardens, and worked throughout the night repairing the beds. They finished only minutes before the Queen's arrival.

WHAT'S UP?—This "what'sit" might almost be a mournful escapee from a science fiction movie as it turns an apparently disembodied moonface to the world in Paris. Actually the inquisitive-looking fellow is a sea lion, poking its head above the surface of a pool in the Vincennes Zoo.

LEAD WITH YOUR LEFT

by ED LACY

CHAPTER XIX

I walked downstairs to the tenth floor and looked around. There were 14 offices on the floor but fortunately a big rug outfit took up six doors. I narrowed it down to three offices, two of them without names on the doors, and one with Data Inc. in small black letters.

I walked into Data Inc. ready to give them a yarn if I was wrong.

It was narrow with a desk, phone, typewriter and two file cabinets as you entered. Then it opened into two cubbyhole offices.

Bully was hanging up the receiver and he stood up as he asked, "What you want, boy?"

I spread my feet as he stepped toward me, met him with a perfect left hook above his belt buckle. He let out a gasping, hissing scream as he slid to the floor.

A wiry character came out of his office on the run, coat off. He led a sucker right; it was a feint and his left banged the side of my face. I blocked another right and kicked him on the knee. He cursed, limped back till he hit a chair, sat down, rubbing his leg.

The side of my face was numb and when I took my hand away it had blood—he was wearing a heavy ring. Fatso was still moaning on the floor. Why gave me a hard look, said, "You're in trouble, kid. I'm a detective."

"What's trouble I come in and before I can open my yap this lump starts pushing and swinging on me."

Why reached for his back pocket. It looked too flat for a gun or knife but I told him, "Take it slow or you'll be on the floor too."

He got a wallet out, flashed one of these gold-privatized badges the state gives you with your license. He stood up, painfully, still rubbing his knee with his long left hand. "I said trouble. You'd better come up with a good story and fast."

"Maybe working my way through reform school. But that hunk of gold plate away before you scratch yourself. I have a real one." I pushed my coat back so he could see my badge on my belt and part of my shoulder holster.

Fatty stopped moaning and stared up at me and then over at his shunt, whose expression could best be called thoughtful. He said, "My name is Frank Flatts. I'm a licensed and bonded private investigator. I'm asking you to identify yourself."

"Detective David Wintino, 201st Squad. Tell him to get up slowly and remove himself."

"I'd like to see your badge."

Pope Cancels Papal Throne Anniversary

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII today cancelled a scheduled celebration of his 19th anniversary on the papal throne because of a civil court's conviction of a north Italian bishop.

An official announcement said special anniversary services scheduled March 12 will not be held because of "the condition of bitterness, sadness and outrage existing (in church circles) in Italy."

The communique gave no details but high Vatican sources said it referred to the conviction of Bishop Pietro Fiondelli of Prato on charges of slander. The bishop was fined $64.50 for defaming two Italians who married outside the Catholic church.

Vatican sources said the Pope devoted part of his 82nd birthday Sunday—which also was the actual anniversary of his elevation to the papal throne—praying for everyone involved in the Prato case.

The Vatican Radio compared Fiondelli's conviction to the persecution of churchmen behind the Iron Curtain. The Catholic action organ Quotidiano said it proved "bishops can be condemned in Italy as in Communist China."

Hundreds of young Catholics gathered under the Pope's window at St. Peter's today and sang the hymn "Christ Wins." In what appeared to be a demonstration for Fiondelli, the Pope appeared at his window and made the sign of the cross.

Russia Has Trouble With Vodka Drinker

MOSCOW (UP) — The government organ Izvestia printed a seven-column weekend blast against the demon vodka, which is becoming Russia's "Public enemy No. 1."

The article, signed by a Dr. Lidia Bogdanovich, proposed the formation of a Soviet "Alcoholics Anonymous" to "conduct propaganda for the people's hygiene."

The Izvestia piece was the latest development in a campaign that began Jan. 2, when the government increased the price of wines and liquor 30 per cent to discourage excessive drinking by "a small segment of the population."

Party Secretary N.S. Khrushchev followed up with a speech in Minsk three weeks later, warning that moonshiners and those "who get people drunk" will be punished.

Dr. Bogdanovich said 70 per cent of Russia's crimes and 50 per cent of its accidents are due to drunkenness.

She said Moscow liquor dealers are selling vodka illegally to minors, while some parents give their sons wine to make them "real men." She denounced this latter practice in particular.

Shah of Iran to Visit The U. S.

TEHRAN, Iran, March 2 (AP)—A court communique said today the Shah of Iran and Queen Soraya have accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States at a date to be announced later. The visit is expected to be set for the end of May.

(In London, the Sunday Dispatch said the Shah and Queen Soraya have separated and agreed to a divorce. The beautiful 25-year-old Queen has repeatedly denied rumors of marital trouble. She is in West Germany visiting her ailing father, the Iranian Ambassador to Bonn.)

Couldn't Sew, Bride Ends Life

KOYAMA, Japan, March 2 (AP)—A bride committed suicide last night because she couldn't sew, police said today.

The body of Mrs. Kikue Nochi, 22, was found in a nearby river. She had filled her kimono's flowing sleeves with rocks.

PLANT LIFE—Although the begonia is ordinarily a short-lived plant, this impressive specimen is threatening to become a centenarian. Already 50 years old, the angel-wing plant is flourishing and shows no signs of withering. It's owned by Mrs. Eula Stricker, above, of Okawville, Ill., who was given the plant by her mother-in-law.

begged for anybody to come in on the radio and answer. No prankster could beg so pitifully for help.

"The motors quit running after they gave some lead pops. The plane started gliding. I could see it all from my tower. He told me he had 25 passengers and would have to make a forced landing."

Chelette said he turned his back to the plane to telephone for aid, but heard the pilot say that he was hitting tree tops.

He said the plane disappeared from view, and no explosion was heard.

Sheriff's forces from three parishes (counties), civilians, air force planes and helicopters searched from about noon until about dusk without finding anything.

Six Jap Workers Buried in Cave-In

NAGANO, Japan, March 2 (AP)—A cave-in at a power dam tunnel near here buried six Japanese workmen today and police said there was no hope of saving them. Three other workers were rescued.
